Health Benefits for the Globally Mobile

Puneet, an engineer, was excited that his first business trip from Bangalore to his company's U.S. headquarters in Boston would enable him to catch up with former university classmates and family members living in the U.S.

Tragically, an accident involving a speeding taxicab and Puneet, a pedestrian, placed him in critical care at a Boston medical center for several weeks.

Without appropriate short term international business travel medical coverage through his employer, Puneet's medical expenses incurred in the United States were financially devastating.

The consequences of being unprepared for an accident or illnesses can be catastrophic. Solutions exist for your clients. Be sure they aren't exposing their international business travelers to tremendous risk when cost-effective options are available.
