This course centers on giving attendees an introduction as well as an overview of ERISA requirements. It features practical insights from an experienced employee benefits attorney. As ERISA compels virtually all group health plans sponsored by private-sector employers to satisfy reporting and disclosure requirements, this course explores which documents are specifically required along with required content.

We also consider what else is advisable, and why you shouldn't adopt a "template" SPD without reviewing it and determining whether it needs to be tailored to your plan.
