Congress Delays Cadillac Tax and Health Insurance Tax in Spending Bill

On January 22nd, President Trump signed into law a short-term spending bill called a Continuing Resolution, to reopen and fund the federal government for three weeks (through Feb. 8, 2018) after it was passed by both chambers of Congress earlier in the day. Attached to the bill are delays or suspensions of three taxes under the Affordable Care Act (ACA) and a six-year extension of the Children's Health Insurance Program (CHIP).

The 40% Excise Tax or "Cadillac Tax" implementation is delayed two additional years, with a new effective date of January 1, 2022. The Health Insurance Industry Fee is suspended for one year until 2019, and the Medical Device Tax is suspended for two years (2018-2019).
