

Employer Notifications of Employee Subsidy

What to Expect and How to Respond

Starting this spring, the FFM will be sending out marketplace appeals to employers if one of their employees receives a subsidy on the exchange and the employee provides the employers contact information. These notices apply to employers of all sizes, large and small.

The purpose of this notification is to allow an employer to respond and provide information if the employers offer of coverage meets the ACA requirements in terms of affordability, and meets the minimum value threshold.

Please join us for our upcoming webinar, hosted by Stephanie Colonna- Romano, as we go over these notifications and the appeal process.
