Important Update on the Oxford Metro Network

We want to keep you informed of changes in network access as they occur. It was previously communicated that Stony Brook University Hospital would participate with the new Oxford Metro Network.

However, effective January 1, 2016, Stony Brook University Hospital will not be a participating (network) facility in the Oxford Metro Network.

As a reminder, below is a listing of major New York hospital systems that will participate with the Oxford Metro Network and those that will not. To search for other hospitals participating in the Oxford Metro Network, please click here.
